Eversole steps in for Kitchen

Posted: 14 July 2000
Oread Online

Ann Eversole, associate dean of students, will be interim dean of students, KU officials announced in June.

Eversole replaces James Kitchen, who left KU June 30 to become vice president of student affairs at San Diego State University.

"We are lucky to have someone with Ann's experience step in for us at this time," said David Ambler, vice chancellor for student affairs.

The dean of students heads the Department of Student Life within the Division of Student Affairs. The department includes the Student Organizations and Leadership Development Center, Recreation Services, Legal Services, University Career and Employment Services, Counseling and Psychological Services, International Student Services, Office of Multicultural Affairs and the Student Development Center.

Eversole came to KU in 1973. She holds bachelor's and master's degrees from Emporia State University and a doctorate in educational policy and administration from KU.